

What you can find at Lowline Country

The homepage has links to dozens of pages about real people's experiences with Australian Lowlines. It invites you to join in the fun and information sharing at our online social network and lays out the conditions of membership.

You can also "Find a Lowline Breeder near you." We have a Google map of Australia and New Zealand with clickable markers indicating each registered Australian Lowline Stud that has its own website. Further down the page are links to lists of every registered Australian Lowline breeder (ALCA member) in either country. They're broken down into relatively small regions so you can easily find a stud in your general locality.

We also have links to the membership lists of the Lowline associations in both the US and Canada.

Herd Book This takes you to the Australian Lowline Herd Book which is maintained by ABRI for the Australian Lowline Cattle Association (ALCA.) Use it to search online for details of a particular stud or breeder. You can also search intensively on individual animals including their ancestry, progeny or registered embryos. This is a "best of breed" facility utilised by the world's most particular cattle breeds.

Everyone gets a personal page at www.lowlinecountry.com
The one above belongs to Kellie Paterson, secretary of the Western Australian Lowline Promotion Group

Corporate takes you to the original ALCA website which contains a lot of breed information. Use it to discover the history of Australian Lowlines and the requirements for joining ALCA.

At the "Australian Lowline Cattle Muster Down Under" find out our plans for the biggest Lowline event ever, to be held at the Sydney Easter Show, April 1 to 14, 2010, where Australian Lowlines will have the honour of being the featured beef cattle breed.

Join our Social Network. It doesn't matter where you live, other Lowline breeders across Australia, New Zealand and the world want to exchange ideas with you. We already have members from Australia, NZ, UK and US.

Even if you have never tried social networking before, join up, and have a go. Our youngest member so far is 11, our oldest is 74 and they're both very active at the site.

And remember
www.lowlinecountry.com is a child safe site.

We expect good faith and good manners from our members and everyone 12 or under needs parental permission which we seek by telephone within 24 hours of a child registering.
